

Terry Jimenez

Terry Jimenez is EVP/CFO of tronc (formerly Tribune Publishing) as of April, 2016. A diversified media company based in Chicago, tronc has $1.6B in annual revenue. At tronc, Terry oversees Financial Reporting and Accounting, Investor Relations, Treasury, Corporate Planning, Corporate Development/M&A and Technology. The tronc ticker symbol is TRNC.

Prior to tronc, Terry was a Partner within IBM's Global Business Services division from 2012 to 2016. Terry was responsible for executing large global services deals and had worked with clients in the UK, Ireland, Poland, Brazil, Netherlands, Italy, France, Norway, Sweden, Canada and South Africa spanning Telco, Aerospace & Defense, Retail, Restaurants, Consumer Product Goods, Industrial, Financial Services and Media Industries.

Prior to IBM, Terry was Publisher/President of Newsday Media Group from September 2009 through February 2012. Newsday Media Group is a subsidiary of Cablevision Systems Corporation which acquired Newsday from Tribune in 2008 and includes Newsday, amNewYork and Star Community Publishing's print and digital businesses. Newsday and amNewYork are among the top 10 largest US Newspapers. Terry assumed the role of President after serving as CFO and COO 2005 - 2009.

From 2003 - 2004, Terry served as Controller for the Chicago Tribune and served as Publishing Project leader for the Sarbanes-Oxley implementation across all of Tribune Company's Publishing Division.

From 1994 – 2003, Terry held various accounting, financial and strategy positions with McDonald's Corporation. Terry last served as a Finance Director for McDonald's Corporation with responsibility for strategic business planning, negotiation, and the integration of joint ventures. Terry was the financial, valuation and integration lead for McDonald's acquisitions of Donatos Pizzeria and Boston Market and the integration lead over McDonald's Joint Venture for Fazoli's.

Terry holds a BS in Accounting from Northern Illinois University and an MBA from the J.L. Kellogg Graduate School of Management at Northwestern University. He is a certified public accountant. He is a member of the Northern Illinois University's Accountancy Executive Advisory Council.